

get Konected

reduce IT licensing and support costs from 10–50%

Konect™

Access software for small and mid-size businesses.

any where, any time

The pace of business today has changed workplace dynamics, making time and information your most valuable competitive resources. Your employees are distributed; working from home, office and on the road. No matter where they are, they require access to live and often real-time information in order to meet customer expectations. Without this timely access to information you open the door to very real competitive threats as potential customers search out alternatives faster than your employees can respond to inquiries and requests.

Enabling your business to be this competitive and responsive can seem daunting. Putting the right information in the hands of your employees when and where they need it requires careful consideration and deployment of the right technologies - hardware, software, security, and networking - to guarantee information integrity, security and timeliness. Fortunately for your business, Konect is designed to deliver on these demanding requirements while making it simple and cost effective for your business to leverage them.

Access software ... moving your business

Remote Connectivity, Security and Price

Use Konect to enable your customers to keep pace with evolving 'virtual office' trends. Konect can seamlessly provide existing software applications and resources to your employees wherever and whenever they need access while maintaining robust security, storage and privacy standards. Instead of waiting for re-architected solutions to extend these benefits, use Konect to 'mobilize' solutions your business already has in place. This capability provides tremendous value and terrific return on investment for a very low cost.

Reduce capital costs and infrastructure management complexities with Konect. Deploy the technology tools and capabilities your business needs with the ability to scale and contract as your business requires.

Konect Key Features

Access to Critical Business Applications and Resources

Empower your business with the ability to maintain continuity in business operations with anywhere, any time access to the applications, files, data and web resources they need.

Business Continuity

Konect integrates into your employees' normal desktop environment, becoming an accessible resource like any other on their desktop.

Enhanced Security & Reliability

Acquire an increased level of security with complete control over what your employees can access. The Konect Control Panel manages security settings for all Konect applications, files, data and web resources.

Cost Savings

Your business can leverage quick turnaround time on upgrades, extend existing investments and provide increased functionality all at a very competitive price point.

Konect Key Benefits

Seamless Access to Critical Applications

Your employees have seamless any where, any time access to existing applications and business resources leveraging a world class delivery platform.

Employee Empowerment

Provide your employees with more timely, accurate and broad information to support their interactions with customers and prospects.

Increased Competitiveness

Empower your employees with the information and tools to make timely decisions and respond to customer needs and requests on the spot.

Extend Your Investments

Leverage your investments in existing applications to deliver information and capability to all of your employees, no matter their location.

how Konect works

Existing applications and business resources are published for remote and mobile access with desktopsites' Konect™ serverware and made accessible on laptop and PC workstations.

About Us

about desktopsites

desktopsites is a leading developer of innovative and cost effective access serverware solutions for small and mid-size businesses. desktopsites' Konect serverware solution delivers access to network applications and resources for small and mid-size businesses without sacrificing the features typically available with more expensive access infrastructure alternatives. desktopsites is a privately-held Canadian corporation with head offices in Calgary, AB, Canada. desktopsites' Konect solution is available to small and mid-size businesses across North America and Europe through our channel network.